More great stuff inside!!

Hello TLA'ers!

Welcome to the first edition of the TLA blog. This blog showcases the artistic endeavors of some of our TLA students. Included is photography, art work, poems and opinions, but this blog is not just limited to those expressions. Anyone that is a TLA student, and has a talent they want to share can send examples of that work to either Mr. Vess, or Mr. McDonald at the school. You can include photos, drawings, cartoons, poems, short stories, opinions, tell us why you like one Presidential candidate over another...essentially anything you want to present, can be presented. Of course, if you submit work that is offensive or overtly mean-spirited, don't look for it in the blog...it won't be there. So if you are a closet artist or writer, now you have a venue to get your work out to your peers.

At the end of this blog, Mr. Vess and I have listed what we think are the ten greatest movies of all times. We are doing this to motivate you to write in and become a part of this blog. Send in your list of what you think are the Top Ten Movies of All Time.

I hope you enjoy our first blog, and I hope many of you become a part of our second one.

Being Lucky
Ashley Warshum

Get a horseshoe,
Get a lucky rabbit's foot
Stay away from black cats,
St. Patrick's Day is said to be lucky.

Be sure to wear green,
Or you get pinched a lot!

New Sunrise

*The sun is setting, its the end of the day
Wake up hoping someone will come along to take the pain away Thoughts of the day drowns your face in tears It seems as if no one cares so you cant let anyone near
Go in through the day playing the same old game
Scared of getting hurt if someone just asks your name
So you put up a wall so no one can get close to you Got to the point where you just said your through
But lil girl theres a new day coming Theres gonna be a new sun rising
Wipe away those tears cause there is still hope
No need to hang yourself put away that rope
Cause theres always another day
Theres always another way
Theres always gonna be a new sun rising*
